Both mountain lakes - the Hinterstockensee and Oberstockensee – make the Stockhorn region an outstanding location for fishing. Its waters are rich in rainbow trout, which are sure to quicken the pulse of every angler.

The Hinterstockensee can be reached in only five minutes by foot from the Chrindi middle station. This makes the route well suited for families and children. Those who appreciate the solitude that comes with fishing will find a tranquil location at the Oberstockensee which can be reached in a 40-minute walk from the middle station.

Fishing is possible on a daily basis after the snowmelt until around the end of the summer season in November.

The fisheries day permit may only be purchased at the valley station of the Stockhornbahn in conjunction with cable car travel and entitles the holder to a maximum catch of 6 fishs.

All angling equipment normally should be brought personally. For groups It can also be hired at the middle station. Lures can be bought as well at the middle station.
